A BOLD GAME.

DETAILS OF THE BIG SWINDLE GAME IN SEDALIA.

Max Martin, the Jeweler, Was Going to Have a $40,000 Stock—Some Tired Sedalians.

Few bolder and more successful confidence men have ever gulled credulous Sedalians than Max Martin, the windy Jew, who is now a fugitive from justice as the result of his stay in Sedalia. The authentic details are as follows, and will be read with interest:

Martin is a very dark complexioned man with a prominent Hebrew nose, the angle of which is more square than curved. In the middle of his chin is a deep scar, a very distinguishing mark. He came to Sedalia last Saturday and took lodgings and board with Mrs. Evans, on East Third street. During the day he visited D. E. Kennedy, the attorney, agent for the Bothwell building on Ohio street and stated that he wanted to lease room No. 507 for a year and would pay until January 1st in advance. He claimed to have lived in Quincy for ten years and was a cousin of Mr. Levy, the dry goods man. He also stated that he had been traveling for a Chicago jewelry house.

Martin was a smooth talker and was magnificent in his plans. He proposed to put in a $40,000 stock of jewelry and contracted with Keck & Dickman for about $600 worth of elaborate fixtures and had arranged with E. E. McClellan to have the store room decorated and papered at a cost of $85 or more, using paper at $1.50 per roll. The jeweler stated that he had a $1,500 diamond pin—in Quincy—and showed a Dueber watch, full jewel movement, filled gold case, of considerable value. He was delighted with Sedalia, and thought it the best town that he had seen, having visited Keokuk, Ia., Hannibal, Moberly and Carthage. Martin visited Mr. Kennedy's office at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and rented the building from Mr. Bothwell with whom he said he could make more satisfactory terms, giving a check for the rent to January 1st on the First National Bank. He told Mr. Kennedy that he had been carrying $2,000 in bills in his pocket, but had deposited the money in the First National bank, showing his bank book for that amount properly signed by Mr. Fred Guenther. This now gave Mr. Kennedy confidence in what the man had told him. A bank book with a credit of $6,400 in a Quincy bank was also shown, but the figures were in pencil, a rather suspicious circumstance. He visited Mr. Kennedy again early Monday morning with Mr. Keck and said that all arrangements had been made for commencing work on the store Tuesday morning.

Matters progressed swimmingly until 9:15 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Mr. Keck came rushing into the lawyers office with a check for $11 on the First National signed by Martin, and asked Mr. Kennedy if he thought the check was a good one. He stated that Martin came to his house early that morning and wanted him to cash a check for this amount, as he was desirous of going to Kansas City on the 6:30 local freight on business. Mr. Keck did not have that amount in hand and both came down to Boutelle's where he endorsed the check and it was cashed.

Messrs. Keck and Kennedy now decided to investigate at the bank. Mr. Guenther told them that Martin had deposited a check for $2,000 on a Quincy bank. This was startling, as a check and good hard cash are not always one and the same thing. A telegram to the Quincy bank brought back the answer that the check was fraudulent.

A search for Martin proved fruitless. A man answering his description had been at the depot about 9 o'clock, but could not be located.

It was then learned that Martin had endeavored to get E. E. McClellan to cash a check for $25 on Monday night, but the stationer had his wits about him and was not caught in the trap. Martin left owing his landlady a $2 board bill. A small red leather grip was found in his room, but it contained nothing but some underclothes, two railroad guides and a pack of cards.

Much curiosity has been aroused as to who Martin really is. He says that he is not a Jew, and was born and raised in Germany. His operations have no doubt been extensive, and there are doubtless many "other counties to hear from." It is to be hoped that he will soon be brought to justice.

ELECTORS COMPLIMENTED.

Enthusiastic Democrats Celebrate by Making a Pudding.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 25.—The most novel feature of yesterday's celebration was the cutting of the mammoth Cleveland and Stevenson plum pudding by Senator John W. Daniel. The revised weight of the pudding was 271 pounds, that being the latest estimate of the number of electoral votes received by Cleveland. A twelve pound slice was sent to each of the successful candidates, twelve being the electoral vote of Virginia.

Another of Martin's Checks.
Besides other accomplishments, Mr. Max Martin, the much wanted would-be jeweler, is a billiard player of no mean pretensions. During his stay in the city, he frequently strolled into Moore's billiard hall on East Third street, and occupied his inventive mind with the fascinating pastime of the ivory balls and the slender cue.

Being short of change one evening, he apologized for a gentleman's being found in such a predicament, but reassuring himself, "Ah, how foolishly strange; funny I didn't think of it before. I'll give you my check on the First National." Accordingly the oily Max drew up a check for $1.10, numbered it "No. 2," and signed his name in most fetching way. The proprietor still has the check and will call it square if somebody will give him even the ten cents.

Shot Off the Headlight.
The crew on a southbound freight train out of Parsons had an exciting experience Tuesday night. The train robbers evidently lay in hiding for the passenger train and as the freight came whizzing along, they signaled it to stop. No attention was paid to it by the engineers and as result the headlight of the engine, No. 8, was riddled with Winchester balls.

Died of Consumption.
Mrs. Jennie Patrick, the beloved wife of Charles Patrick, the well known M. K. & T. brakeman, after a long and painful illness, died of consumption at her home, No. 1214 East Tenth street, at 10 o'clock this morning, aged 23 years.

The deceased was a lady beloved by all who knew her. To the bereaved husband and relatives, the DEMOCRAT extends its heartfelt sympathy.

Prisoners to the Pen.
Deputy Marshal J. B. McGowan, of Kansas City, passed through at noon en route to Jefferson City with four prisoners whom he was taking to the penitentiary. All were white but one and were most hardened looking men.

Thos. Looney gets three years for burglary; Ike and J. W. Burns, two years each for grand larceny, and Chas Rider, two years for same.

Assembly Ball To-night.
The Assembly club, Sedalia's swell dancing organization, will entertain its friends at the armory hall this evening with delightful music and dancing. There will be a large attendance, a number of society ladies and gentlemen being present from a distance.

A Horse Falls Dead.
A gentleman named Sneed had the misfortune to have a horse fall dead in the harness while driving near the corner of Hill and Saline streets about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

They Would All be There.
From the New York Press.

"Are there many men unemployed in this town?"

"I don't know. If you can wait until to-morrow I'll tell you."

"How will you know to-morrow?"

"There's going to be a safe moved into a three-story building on the principal street."

HELD UP.

A NORTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN ROBBED THIS MORNING.

All the Male Passengers Robbed of Money and Watches and Other Valuables.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 25.—Another daring train robbery was committed at an early hour this morning. The overland train on the Northern Pacific was held up by three daring desperadoes and all of the male passengers robbed.

The work was accomplished so quickly that there was no chance for resistance. The robbers secured about twelve hundred dollars in money and several thousand dollars worth of watches and other valuables.

Officers are in pursuit of the robbers.

BLAINE WORSE.

No Visitors Admitted to His Room Now.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Grave fears are entertained regarding the condition of Hon. James G. Blaine. He is worse to-day and no visitors are admitted to his room.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

He Spent Thanksgiving Quietly on Broadwater Island.

EXMORE, Va., Nov. 25.—President-elect Cleveland is enjoying himself quietly on Broadwater island the beautiful, but isolated resort, which is owned by the Broadwater club. It is nineteen miles from Exmore landing, which place is two miles from Exmore station, on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk railroad. The private steam launch Sunshine plies between the landing and the island over a course which follows Machepongo creek for five and a half miles. The island is nine miles long and three wide and contains a population of twenty-one families. At the late election thirty-one votes were polled and they were all for Cleveland. The president-elect and his friends, Charles B. Jefferson and L. Clarke Davis, are the guests of Joseph L. Ferrel, president of the club, at his cottage, standing in a grove of pine trees, a half a mile inland. Mr. Davis is a member of the club.

Mr. Cleveland and his two friends arrived at Exmore station shortly after 5 o'clock and remained in the private car of General Superintendent Kenney of the Pennsylvania, Wilmington and Baltimore road, in which the trip was made until 7 o'clock. Although the hamlet contains but thirteen houses and five of them are stores, nearly five hundred people welcomed the distinguished guest and gave him a cordial reception. Mr. Cleveland acknowledged this welcome by uncovering his head and shaking hands with the gathering. At 8:30 the Sunshine conveyed them to Broadwater Island. Although the object of Mr. Cleveland's visit is to secure absolute quiet, he expects to spend some time in duck shooting.

A heavy northwesterly wind has prevented gunning, so the party has remained quietly indoors. Mr. Cleveland is in excellent health. A reporter went to the island and presented his card to the president-elect. He was received courteously but Mr. Cleveland begged to be excused from submitting to an interview. He, however, expressed himself as being delighted with his surroundings and said it was his intention to remain on the island five or six days. Then he will join Mrs. Cleveland at Lakewood, N. J. It is probable, however, that if the president-elect's plans are interrupted by callers, that he will stay several days longer.

The Express Cars on the M. K. & T. Heavily Guarded in the Indian Territory.

Last Tuesday night a negro track walker on the M. K. & T. below Adair, I. T., was stopped in the darkness by a band of heavily armed men and his lantern taken from him. The negro was then told "to skip and lose no time about it."

He reported the affair to his superiors and the officials were promptly informed. The negro states that there were sixteen men in the gang and that all were desperate looking fellows. Numerous heavily armed guards, have accordingly been put on the trains and a desperate battle will ensue if the robbers attack the train.

A prominent trainman said to a DEMOCRAT reporter to-day: "The position of express messenger on a train running through the Indian territory is at present one of the most undesirable that could be found. The fact that the safe was opened by the messenger in the Adair rob-

TWISTED A BAR.

A Desperate Fight Ensues Among the Prisoners at the Jail—Trying to Escape.

George Walker, S. M. Bosman and J. H. Adams, three tough criminals confined in the county jail, attempted to escape yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock by twisting from its place one of the iron bars of the cage which had been insecurely fastened at the bottom by the workmen who repaired the damage done by the attempted escape of last Saturday.

Additional details are given to the facts as told above to a DEMOCRAT reporter by the story of a passenger who was on the southbound train Tuesday night:

"At Vinita the roadmaster informed the passengers and they began hiding their cash and valuables and preparing for the attack, which was soon expected. There was a rush for hiding places in every conceivable crevice and corner. Several passengers, it developed afterwards, had nearly $1,000 each in cash, and one man traveling with his wife and sick child, had $2,000, which he tucked away in the baby's wrappings. The fourteen men on the sleeper occupied by Mr. Garretson, carried, he estimates, $12,000 or $15,000 in cash and jewelry, the latter embracing chiefly gold watches and diamonds. These val-

MAJOR & HUGHES,

Boarding and Livery Stable,

A T Gilman's old stand, COR. THIRD & OSAGE.

Breit was taken to the calaboose and the city physician, Dr. R. Wilson Carr, summoned, but he refused from some cause to give treatment. Drs. Mills, Scales and Dressel were sent for and kindly responded to the call, and in their bigness of heart did everything to ease the poor man's sufferings. His right foot was amputated.

The police, the hack men and Mr. Frank De Jarnette also deserve praise for their unselfish kindness toward the injured man.

Breit was removed from the calaboose this morning and taken to room No. 18 in the Riley hotel. A further examination showed that both collar bones had also been broken. He was resting easily. When found he had $6.10 upon his person.

CLEVELAND will make his own cabinet when the time comes.

SENATOR COCKRELL is in favor of an extra session of congress.

THE Australian voting system has given good results wherever tried.

GET the plans all ready for the convention hall and build it next summer.

A newspaper can very easily injure a community in trying to make a little political capital.

THE new management of the Gazette is not behind the old in its tirades against the police and the community in general.

OFFICERS in Southwest Missouri are after a gang of horse thieves. The thieves are well organized, and it is said there are forty members of the gang.

SENATOR VOORHEES says that every day's existence of certain unjust laws is a burden and a wrong to the American people. He favors an extra session of congress to repeal them.

MORE than usual interest will attach to the road convention which meets here next month from the fact that an effort will be made by the advocates of good roads to agree upon a road law to present to the general assembly.

THE Gazette intimates that the officials of Sedalia are derelict in the performance of duty, and that for this reason crime is rampant. The record shows that an average of about two hundred arrests have been made each month since April, and that too by a police force that is notoriously too small for a town the size of Sedalia. When the number of arrests are compared with the number of offenses, it will be found that Sedalia's record is not unusually bad. Footpads have committed offenses here as they have in St. Louis, Kansas City and elsewhere, and avoided detection; but even this class of crime has been greatly exaggerated. The Gazette's assertion that Sedalia people harbor criminals in order to profit by their ill gotten gains we do not believe to be true, except as applied to criminals themselves. That there are gamblers and vagrants here is probably true, but the law makes it the duty of sheriffs, constables and justices of the peace, equally with policemen, to arrest them and bring them to punishment.

THE OFFICIAL VOTE.

The official vote of Missouri has been looked for with more than usual interest.

Our republican friends have boasted of the "growth of the republican party in Missouri," and have been so loud and persistent in their claims as to not only deceive some of the more credulous of their own party but to actually cause uneasiness among a few timid democrats.

The announcement of the official returns, however, show that the g. o. p. is passing into the "sere and yellow leaf" in Missouri, as elsewhere, and gives absolutely no ground for the statement that the people of this state have ever entertained the idea of reinstating that party in power.

The Republic makes the following comparison of this year's vote with that of former elections:

"The vote of Missouri in the recent election, as ascertained and promulgated officially by Secretary of State Lesueur, is worthy of more than a passing notice. The official figures show that Mr. Cleveland received 268,039 votes, against 261,943 votes given him in 1888 and 235,988 given him in 1884. This is an increase favorable to democracy in the eight years of 32,651 votes, or at the rate of 4,000 a year. Mr. Harrison received 226,824 votes, against 236,252 in 1888, and 202,929 votes given to Mr. Blaine in 1884. This demonstrates that Mr. Harrison lost more than 10,000 votes in Missouri, and that the republicans have only gained 23,000 votes in eight years, at the rate of 2,900 a year. If anything were needed to demonstrate Mr. Cleveland's growing popularity, these figures should be sufficient. His plurality in 1884 was 33,059; his plurality in 1888 was 25,691, and his plurality in 1892 is 41,215."

The vote on the state ticket is even more pronounced in favor of democratic men and measures. Colonel Stone received 265,144 votes, Warner 235,354, Leonard 37,276, and Sobieski 3,393, giving Colonel Stone a plurality of 29,792. This is not all. These figures show that Major Warner lacked 7,177 of receiving as many votes as were cast for Mr. Kimball in 1888. It also shows that Colonel Stone's vote exceeded that given Governor Francis by 9,380, while Mr. Cleveland's gain during the past four years was 6,685. In other words, the state democratic increase of votes in Missouri is nearly 3,000 in excess of that of the national democratic vote, a fact complimentary to Colonel Stone and the state ticket".

WILL GO TO WORK.
The Marshall Democrat-News has the following cheerful report from the north end of the Springfield, Sedalia, Marshall & Northern railroad:

"Hon. Wm. M. Walker has just received a letter from H. N. Armstrong from Brookfield. He says their road at its annual meeting elected L. S. Bowden, president; W. J. Cox, vice president; W. W. Shearer, general manager; John Ford, treasurer; Walter Brownlee, secretary; H. N. Armstrong, chief engineer, and Geo. W. Martling, auditor. They will go at once to work to build their end of the road."

BEN BUTLER hasn't been breaking into office very often lately and has become a bitter enemy of the Australian ballot system. He unbooms himself as follows: "The adoption of that system of balloting wounds my self-pride. We, of Massachusetts, at least, are free men, coming from the Puritans who voted with a kernel of corn for yes and a bean for no. We have been trying to improve our system of balloting for more than twenty-five years by methods devised with all our culture, aided especially by Harvard college in getting the best system by which a free, enlightened people will express their decision upon the measures and men which govern them. Throwing away all we had learned, we went to the South seas, to an island settled by British felons, and took their system, which was devised by such a community to make them vote honestly, and imported it for our use, thus acknowledging that it was necessary that a people should be convicted and punished for at least one felony in order to quicken the inventive power of a people to frame the best system of balloting for the United States of America. That ballot was framed to make a convict, if he voted at all, keep it a secret from his keeper how he voted. The vote should be cast independently, not sneakingly."

Two men were held up again Monday night in Sedalia and robbed—one of them before it was barely night. This thing seems to be becoming monotonous in that little city. Footpads seem to make it a haven where they may go to raise the wind at their own sweet will and in their own peculiar way. They appear to assault and rob people there merely for pastime. Timid men and ladies are not safe upon the streets after sundown without an escort of armed policemen. Visitors who go there after night should carry a section of gatling guns loaded with log chains.—Fayette Advertiser.

Not a bit of it! Life and property are as safe in Sedalia as in any other town through which as much travel passes. Now and then a crime is committed, but not more frequently than in other towns of equal population. Just please remember that Sedalia has nearly twenty-five thousand population.

THE Boonville Star thus reports journalistic life in the Vine Clad: "Life in this office has been decidedly interesting during the past few days—in fact too interesting for comfort. Only Tuesday a foolish fellow had the nerve to insult the editor in his sanctum and when he remonstrated, picked up a hatchet that lay conveniently near and let her go. Fortunately for the editor the weapon was buried in an intervening stove pipe, where it will have to stay until some one presents us with a new pipe. The fellow found out his mistake and the last heard of him he was trying to find his way out of the cellar." That is Editor Wright's modest way of saying that he threw the intruder down stairs.

THE Gazette has begun a campaign for the moral reformation of Sedalia. Good. But be fair and consistent, and when you blame the saloon also hold up to public scorn the respectable libertine who haunts rooms around the city. If the Gazette can bring the offenders to repentance well and good; but it should not misrepresent the people and officers of Sedalia in doing so, nor give out the impression that life and property are more unsafe here than elsewhere.

If the tariff question was the most important issue in the campaign, why isn't its reform the most important and pressing work the incoming administration can perform? This thing of postponing the settlement of great public questions is all wrong. The people know what they want, and they lose confidence in the man who talked one way before the election and another way afterward.

A BLIND man named Walsh has brought a suit in the California courts to test the validity of the Australian ballot. He holds that the constitution guarantees a secret ballot and that the form prescribed by the state law prevents him from voting unless some one prepares the ballot for him, and thus it is no longer a secret ballot that he casts. If Walsh wins his suit the late election in the state will be invalid.

It did not take a congressional committee to discover that the employment of Pinkerton mercenaries tends to provoke riot and bloodshed. Missouri learned this long ago, and enacted a law to prevent importing bodies of armed soldiers into this state.

SUPPOSE that attempted jail delivery had occurred at the calaboose, wouldn't the Gazette have

"roasted" the officer who permitted a workman to leave a bar in the grating "loose at the bottom instead of properly fastening it." But it was a republican officer, and the republican organ hasn't a word to say, although three desperate criminals in the effort to escape were only "thwarted by a felon prisoner."

THE mayor has urged upon the marshal and the police the duty of enforcing all the laws of the city; the marshal and the police have done good work, as is shown by the number of arrests; and yet, whenever a crime is committed, the republican organ feels called upon to denounce the authorities as incompetent or cowardly.

FANNY RICE.
The simple announcement that Miss Fanny Rice and her clever company of comedians and singers will be seen at Wood's opera house on Tuesday evening, November 29th, should be sufficient to fill the house. Miss Rice is well known to the theatre going public from one end of the country to the other, and her record of gratifying successes as the leading comedienne of the "New York Casino Co." is still fresh in the minds of patrons of first-class entertainments.

In "a Jolly Surprise," Miss Rice fits every part of the display of her versatility; and she sings, dances, imitates and creates, with a vim that carries everything before it. Her supporting company comprises nearly a score of well known metropolitan artists. Everything is new and bright; and Miss Rice's character impersonations in her great importuned cabinet scene are worth going miles to see.

for office depends upon service rather than fitness for the position. We seldom have a sheriff who can and will do his duty. There is also too much delay in calling out the military, the governor fearing he might offend some one."

"Do you mean to say that the sheriff defers doing his duty through fear of his political consequences?"

"I do. The same applies to the governor and the legislature."

A. C. Robertson, select councilman and ex-member of the legislature, said he had been a glass worker for many years and organized several strikes. He said that class legislation in this state had been in favor of the corporate class. Witness thought that if injunction proceeding had been sought by the Carnegie company, and Pinkertons not brought here there would have been no trouble.

John A. Potter, superintendent of the Homestead mill when the trouble began, and now chief engineer of the Carnegie company, was sworn. He identified the testimony given by him before the congressional committee.

*Gallinger—At what point did you meet the Pinkertons?

A.—At Ashtabula, O.

Q.—Why did you meet them there? A.—Because I was authorized to do so.

Q.—Did you take charge of them? A.—No, sir. They were in charge of their own people until we arrived at Davis island dam when Col. Gray took charge.

He believed that the state of the steel market would have warranted the Carnegie company paying the rate of wages demanded by the workers at Homestead. The Amalgamated association, he declared, was always in favor of arbitration and their policy always one of conciliation. The strikers would not have fired upon United States troops or militia as they did upon the Pinkerton barges. Continuing Mr. Weihe said:

If the Carnegie Co. had kept up the conferences with the Amalgamated committee instead of issuing an ultimatum a settlement could have been effected by July 1."

Witness did not think the company's property was ever in danger. The practice of employing armed detectives during a strike, he said, was very bad, as the workingmen regard it as an interference with their rights.

William G. Roberts, of Homestead, ex-vice president of the Amalgamated association, told of the reduction in wages and of the number of men affected.

Senator Gallinger—Did you believe in the cessation of work by the men? A.—I did.

Q.—How did the conference of June 23 come about?

A.—It was at the time of our convention and we wished to make one more request for a conference; it did not last long.

Q.—Do you mean to say that the average of wages paid by the Carnegie Steel Co. is lower than that paid by other steel mills?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you as a workman approve of the various steps taken by the workmen of this strike? A.—If you mention the action on July 6, I certainly did not.

Q.—What did your people think of the incoming of Pinkertons?

A.—We looked upon it as an unfair means of forcing us into submission. The workmen look on all extra watchmen with suspicion, as they usually try to get our places.

Q.—What do you as workmen think of the employment of such detectives to masquerade as workmen in order to spy upon you, as they are charged with doing?

A.—I would not work for a firm that would do it.

Witness said that the Carnegie company has a black list and every applicant's record is examined before he is employed.

Senator Gallinger—To what cause do you attribute that river back trouble? A.—The hatred of the workmen all over the country for the Pinkertons caused it.

Q.—What do you think is the solution of these labor problems?

A.—Arbitration, and that compulsory.

Q.—You don't think the United States can come into a state and take away the state's powers?

A.—I think they can.

Q.—I wish they could. What will be the result to the Amalgamated and other unions by the settlement of this strike?

A.—I don't think it will have a bad result. It will bind the men closer together as it shows them what they must expect in the future.

Q.—Do you think there was any danger to the property of the Carnegie Co. from the men?

A.—No, sir.

Q.—Do you think the offer on the part of the men to care for the property was made in good faith?

A.—I certainly know it was.

Q.—How do you think an arbitration board should be appointed?

A.—By the government, and it should be made compulsory.

Mr. Weihe was recalled and said that he was in favor of restricting immigration as a partial relief for labor troubles. He also favored more strict enforcement of the anti-contract labor law, which he said was being evaded, if not openly violated.

Foreign laborers will accept lower wages than Americans?

"Yes, sir."

Thomas Mellon, a banker of this city, testified that an injunction would not have answered in the Homestead case, as delay was too great. Witness had some experience in handling strikers in the mining regions without armed watchmen and detectives, but their execution was inefficient.

"Can you explain why in this enlightened state of Pennsylvania, in the close of the nineteenth century, such laws exist?" asked Senator Gallinger.

"In my opinion," the witness replied, "there is too much party politics for the good of the people. Preference

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Once more Yale has defeated Princeton. Once more the tigers have failed to score, and again the blue flag waves triumphant over the football field.

Probably never before in the history of football has such a game been witnessed. For brilliancy of play, unlooked for maneuvers and fine individual work the game of '92 will stand pre-eminent. Nothing more heroic than the work of Laurie Bliss, of Yale, and Capt. King, of Princeton, has been seen on the football field in years.

A Card From Dr. R. W. Carr.
To the Editor of the Democrat:

This morning's Gazette in reporting the case of Henry Bright, who was run over by the cars last night, stated that I declined to attend,

"giving as a reason that the city jail was not a proper place to give treatment," was only partially correct.

I requested the officer to see the mayor and insist upon the hospital receiving him, for the sake of humanity; that I was sick, suffering from bronchitis and could not give him proper attention in the calaboose; failing in this to take him to some house where I would attend him. I heard no more till I saw the report this morning and supposed the hospital had secured him.

DEFENDING THE NEGRO.

The Porters Get a Good Word From a Missouri Journal.

The Tipton Times thus comes to the defense of the useful but much abused negro porter:

"The Sedalia Gazette has inaugurated a war on negro porters on railroad trains. This is about the only capacity in which negroes are admitted in the railroad service in this state outside of the most menial labor, and it is intensely surprising that any one and more especially a republican organ whose recent professions of friendship for the negro have not been forgotten, should attempt to erect a barrier against their employment in this humble capacity. It is true that sometimes gross incompetency as well as aggravating insolence is seen in these porters, but similar or other equally serious defects are observed in every calling of life. Some editors as well as merchants, lawyers and doctors are not only mean, but dishonest. Are all engaged in these several professions and callings to be aspersed because of a few unworthy individuals? Suppose a hearty, robust, vigorous negro man can't regulate the temperature of a moving train just to suit the sensibilities of some debilitated dyspeptic, is he, for this to be deprived of his occupation and a means of gaining a livelihood? The obliging and friendly disposition of the negro peculiarly fits him for such service as train porter, and however distasteful it may be to the few scions of New England who travel over the railroads of this state, the traveling public as a whole greatly prefer them, and it is probably due to this fact instead of either the 'criminal economy' of the railroad companies, or the conductors who require somebody to black their boots and duly recognize their importance," as the Gazette intimates, that the good natured negroes with their cordial smiles and profuse courtesy are found on our railroad trains, ready and eager to render a kindly service. We are for the negro porter and may his 'tips' be generous."

IN THE AZTEC CITY.*A Few Notes on Local Matters in the City of Mexico.

The following clippings are from the Anglo-American, dated November 13th:

It is said that a prominent American railroad official lost $10,000 on Wednesday night playing bacarat at the Casino Nacional.

The Interceanic will soon have a hospital service similar to that maintained by the National. It is being organized by Dr. Alfred Bray who will be surgeon in chief.

The sum of $1,332 was collected in taxes from pulque for October, while the water supply for houses yielded during the same time $4,225. Thus it would seem at first sight that the water consumed by the Mexicans was more than three times as much as the beverage which cheers as well as inebriates—a charge that will scarcely be laid at the doors of any of the foreign residents in the capital.

Those who were fortunate enough to witness the snow storm on Mounts Popocateptl and Ixtacchuatl on Thursday saw a phenomenon not soon to be forgotten. It was a beautiful spectacle, and the cloudless atmosphere afforded an unobstructed view. Next morning the dominions of the snow king extended far down the sides of both mountains; throwing the rough ridges of their corrugated faces into a labyrinth of dazzling crystals, as the sunlight danced on its white surface. Truly, Mexicans may well be proud of the incomparable spectacle which the country presents almost at the very gates of her capital.

Will Robinson, living at No. 1204 South Kentucky street, met with an accident yesterday that came near costing him his right thumb. He had loaded a breech-loading shot gun and was standing just outside the door working with the trigger when the gun was discharged and the recoil of the gun caused the lever to strike his hand between the thumb and forefinger. The flesh was torn back an inch, making a most ugly wound. Dr. Scales dressed the injury.
